DESCRIPTION

HR Giger's Nubian Queen is a striking bronze sculpture that blends surrealism and fantastic realism.

The figure, with its elongated legs and pharaoh-like presence, stands on a hieroglyphic plinth, evoking ancient Egyptian mysticism. Giger, captivated by mummies during his childhood visits to the Rätisches Museum, was particularly drawn to the Egyptian princess's burial, a mix of fascination and dread that would later influence his art. The sculpture embodies this haunting yet mesmerizing connection to the past, showcasing Giger's unique ability to merge the organic with the otherworldly.
